This Week

This week we completed our investigation into marine mammal classification and showed off what we learned with posters and scientific drawings. In math we began reviewing topics from earlier in the year such as fractions, division, and word problems. The 4th graders are continuing their mastery of angle measures as well. We are also gearing up to transplant our seedlings into the greenhouse next week!

We love volunteers! However, at this time, the school is unable to have volunteers in the building. Please know help is always appreciated and we will be sure to notify you when the school building is open again to allow you to come help!
